

SUPPORT FOR ANTIBIOTIC STEWARDSHIP IN POULTRY PRODUCTION

As individuals and organizations committed to protecting public health and animal health, we support conformance with the attached Antimicrobial Stewardship Policy for Poultry. By eliminating non-therapeutic uses of antibiotics, as described by the policy, the poultry industry can help preserve the efficacy of life-saving antibiotics for human use while encouraging healthy living conditions for chickens and other birds. The attached policy provides a clear, actionable definition for responsible antibiotic use for producers who do not want to adopt a “no antibiotics administered” standard. We urge the poultry industry and its customers to incorporate this policy into production and purchasing decisions.

- The Alliance for the Prudent Use of Antibiotics
- ASPCA
- Center for Science in the Public Interest
- Food Animal Concerns Trust
- Humane Farm Animal Care (Certified Humane)
- Humane Society of the United States
- Infectious Diseases Society of America
- Johns Hopkins Center for a Livable Future
- Keep Antibiotics Working
- Natural Resources Defense Council
- Pew Charitable Trusts